Born and raised in San Pedro, California, Jolene and Anthony DiMaggio have been loyal to Notre Dame since childhood. Anthony is president of Star Fisheries, Inc., a wholesaler of seafood to grocery store chains throughout the Southwest. Based in San Pedro, Star Fisheries also has offices in Seattle, Las Vegas, Tempe, and Albuquerque. Jolene is president of Seacliff Seafoods, a seafood wholesaler with offices in California and Texas.

Residing in Rancho Palos Verdes with their daughters, Marissa and Stephanie, Jolene and Anthony remain active in the parishes they have attended throughout their lives, Mary Star of the Sea and Little Sisters of the Poor.

The Jolene and Anthony DiMaggio General Library Endowment reflects the couple’s commitment to advancing scholarly excellence in all fields of study at Notre Dame. As a general library endowment, it allows the Hesburgh Libraries the flexibility to acquire resources as needed for emerging areas of interest; to use funds at times and under circumstances of greatest cost optimization; and to offer support when and as Notre Dame students, faculty, and researchers need it.
