Dr. Philip Fagan Jr. ('65), president of the Emergency Department Physicians Medical Group, Inc., and director of the emergency department at the Hospital of the Good Samaritan in Los Angeles, California, is a leader in the field of emergency medicine and a distinguished member of the Southern California medical community. He earned his degree in medicine from Tulane University and once taught at Notre Dame. He has been a member of the Advisory Council for the Hesburgh Libraries since 1990. Phil was influenced in his choice of profession by the example of his father, the late Philip J. Fagan Sr., an orthopedic surgeon of Portland, Oregon, in whose memory this endowed collection was established.

Phil and his wife, Dianne, act together in their professional careers. They have three sons: Scott ('00), John Philip, and Brad.

The Philip J. Fagan Jr., MD, and Family Endowed Library Collection enables the acquisition of costly biomedical literature and other research materials, from neurophysiology to immunology, genetics, and virology. This endowment has allowed the Hesburgh Libraries to support the rigorous undergraduate and graduate programs at Notre Dame, as well as the state-of-the-art research initiatives of the University’s faculty.