Foxen Family Endowed Collection for the Humanities

A GIFT FROM

Patrick and Ann Foxen Kenny

From literature, to music, to religion, the humanities are comprised of a wide and varied range of disciplines. Therefore, the Libraries must collect a broad and extensive body of resources for the scholars who study and research the humanities. The Foxen Endowment is a critical partner in this endeavor — providing the funds necessary for not only the basics such as books and journal subscriptions, but also new technology accessible both on campus and for our students and faculty around the world.