John Hrycko is currently president of Dowagiac Commercial Press, Inc. Upon his graduation from Western Michigan University in 1961, he worked in LaPorte, Indiana, and in 1964 was hired by Niles Printing Company, where he was employed until 1975. At Notre Dame, John is a member of the Edward Frederick Sorin Society. His two oldest daughters, Noelle and Elizabeth, are Notre Dame graduates, and his youngest daughter, Robin, is a graduate of Saint Mary’s College.

With the help of the versatile John Hrycko Family Endowment Fund, the Hesburgh Libraries have the financial flexibility to support the University’s academic excellence by supplying resources of commensurate quality for Notre Dame’s many user groups.

A reliable and constant source of support for special acquisition opportunities, for materials support for new University initiatives, and for funding programs and services which would otherwise have no possibility of coming to fruition, the fund serves many purposes. What remains constant, however, is its fulfillment of the Hesburgh Libraries’ need for unrestricted endowment support to stay abreast of the many and varied information needs of Notre Dame’s undergraduates, graduate students, and faculty in an era of escalating costs, rapidly proliferating information, and a constantly changing technological environment.

The Hrycko family supports two additional Named endowments.
