A native of Indianapolis, Indiana, J. Albert Smith (’62) received an MBA from New York University in 1967. He is a managing director of JPMorgan Private Bank and Chase Bank of Central Indiana and is active in a number of church-related organizations. His wife, Maribeth, a graduate of Saint Mary-of-the-Woods College in Terre Haute, Indiana, served for six years as director of special events for the mayor of Indianapolis and, in 1991, was the first woman to serve as executive director of the NCAA Basketball Final Four. She now owns her own event consulting business. The Smiths have three children: Kathleen is an alumna of Saint Mary’s College, and J. Albert III and Edward are both Notre Dame graduates.

The Smith Endowment makes possible several important acquisitions annually that directly benefit a core group of highly productive faculty in the Department of Accountancy. These acquisitions are not restricted to books alone, as the receipt of The Database of Accounting Research in diskette format attests.

The libraries have also acquired, under the auspices of the Smith Collection, most of the works published by the Center for International Financial Accounting Research (CIFAR) at Princeton University.
