A member of Notre Dame’s Advisory Council for the Hesburgh Libraries, Joseph S. Zavislak is the executive vice president of IKON Office Solutions, Incorporated, in Tempe, Arizona. A 1966 graduate of Loyola Chicago, he received his MBA from Roosevelt University in 1975. He and his wife, Mary, reside in Phoenix, Arizona, and have two sons, one of whom received his bachelor’s degree from Notre Dame in 1997 and his law degree in 2000. Joe and Mary are members of the University’s Stephen Theodore Badin Guild and the Order of St. Thomas More. The Joseph J. and Frances D. Zavislak Family Collection in Polish Studies was created in honor of Joe’s parents.

Ensuring the steady receipt of current Polish imprints important to study and research at Notre Dame, earnings from the Zavislak Endowment provide students and faculty with Polish language books on the country’s literature, history, social and political thought, internal and external political relations, intellectual history, theology, philosophy, art, culture, and a host of other areas. In addition, it has allowed the libraries to expand holdings of retrospective runs and current issues of newspapers such as Gazeta Wyborcza, which, as the daily with the biggest circulation in Poland, is critical to the study of all aspects of this rapidly changing country and its geographic region.
